Kimono dressing experience

Kimono is considered as a very formal clothing. Today, kimono are most often worn by women, particularly on special occasions such as coming of age day, tea ceremonies and weddings. Traditionally, unmarried women wore a style of kimono called FURISODE with almost floor-length sleeves. Professional sumo wrestlers are often seen in the kimono because they are required to wear traditional Japanese dress whenever appearing in public. Local Kimono wearing class instructors and students will help you to wear Kimono.
